It may include public health research, guidance, policy or reports from public health organisations. It does not include surveillance reports, news items or information about public health events.

Articles have not been critically appraised by NICE and inclusion does not imply endorsement.

Some links are to abstracts of the article. Access to some full text is available to eligible users via Open Athens. NHS staff may wish to contact their local NHS library service for information on obtaining full text.

The NICE Evidence Services team works with the public health community to continually improve our public health resources. We welcome your input, so please send us your feedback via the Let us know link above.
