			contract has been signed (but no work completed to date) to run the Beckman troponin assay in stored samples. Singulex also donated reagents for use during the study.
Richard Body	Specialist Committee Member	Non-financial professional and personal interests	I spoke about IFCC recommendations for using high-sensitivity troponin assays at the American Association for Clinical Chemistry conference in August 2019. Travel expenses were covered and accommodation costs are due to be covered by the IFCC. The session was industry-sponsored, meaning that several diagnostic companies (Roche, Abbott, Siemens, Beckman, Ortho, ET Healthcare) had paid (via the IFCC) for the session to take place, but I did not take an honorarium and the session was delivered independently of the companies (as an initiative for the Committee for Clinical Applications of Cardiac Biomarkers).
