Possible areas for comment on the draft guideline

Does the guideline

- make recommendations about all the issues in the scope considered important by people affected by the guideline
- recommend treatments and care that people affected by the guideline might not agree with
- recommend actions or activities that people affected by the guideline might find unacceptable
- promote equality of opportunity relating to age, disability, gender, gender identity, ethnicity, religion and belief, sexual orientation or socioeconomic status, and could this be improved
- identify the right organisations and individuals to take action
- include all the important evidence
- cover important gaps in the evidence in the research recommendations (these could include people's or the community's experience)
- include in the implementation section all the tools that will help to put the guideline into practice?

Do the recommendations:

- reflect what the evidence says about care and treatment or specific activities or approaches
- take account of people's choices and their preferences (if applicable)
- take account of the information and support needed by people affected by the guideline
- consider the specific needs of different groups (for example, children and young people and people from minority ethnic groups)
- use wording that is respectful to individuals and communities and is clear and easy to follow
- reflect the importance of different people and professionals working together?

Do you:

- agree with the recommendations (if not, please explain why)
- think the Committee has interpreted and applied the evidence correctly (are there any potential inconsistencies or disagreements)
- think there are recommendations or areas in the guideline that would be difficult to put into practice
- think some recommendations will make a big difference to local services and if so which ones (for example, is a test or treatment available in some areas but not in others)?

- How clear and easy to understand are the recommendations on a scale of 1 to 5, 1 being very unclear, 5 being very clear?
- Are there any recommendations that aren't clear about what action to take?
