August 2024	15/08/2024	Ongoing	Declare and participate. Updated and Considered by the NICE Team August 2024

Rali Marinova	Specialist Committee Member	Indirect Interest	I work in a hospital where a stoma product company - Hollister, pays through a tender sum to the Trust. The sponsor does not directly pay the nursing staff, but pays the Hospital Trust, as part of a tender contract. This payment may be used towards staff salaries, education, conferences, etc., the sponsor does not directly pay staff for these, and it is the hospital Trust to pay for our salaries and expenses. Regardless of the tender agreement, the stoma nurses have freedom to choose any brand of stoma bags, autonomously using their clinical judgement when deciding which product would be best for the patient. We have unlimited access to at least 12-15 of the major stoma products companies, and if there is any item from any company that we do not store in stock, we order this as an urgent delivery.	2019	15/04/2024	14/08/2024	Declare and participate. Considered by the panel at appointment educational course. The course was run by Leicester DeMontfort University and hosted by Salts, and I attended the course several years ago.

Dr Michelle Boucher	Professional Expert	Indirect Interest	I am employed by Salisbury NHS Foundation Trust, and receive my salary directly from them. The Trust has a 'sponsorship' arrangement with Coloplast. This means that they gift the Trust the equivalent of the stoma department salary budget. The contract which the Trust procurement department and the South West Purchasing Peninsula have agreed with Coloplast makes plain that there is no obligation to use Coloplast products or services. Coloplast have an educational fund which we make applications to from time to time to pay for nurses to attend educational events and conferences.
