NICE guideline

January 2020

Commissioned by the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence

Disclaimer

The recommendations in this guideline represent the view of NICE, arrived at after careful consideration of the evidence available. When exercising their judgement, professionals are expected to take this guideline fully into account, alongside the individual needs, preferences and values of their patients or service users. The recommendations in this guideline are not mandatory and the guideline does not override the responsibility of healthcare professionals to make decisions appropriate to the circumstances of the individual patient, in consultation with the patient and, where appropriate, their carer or guardian.

Local commissioners and providers have a responsibility to enable the guideline to be applied when individual health professionals and their patients or service users wish to use it. They should do so in the context of local and national priorities for funding and developing services, and in light of their duties to have due regard to the need to eliminate unlawful discrimination, to advance equality of opportunity and to reduce health inequalities. Nothing in this guideline should be interpreted in a way that would be inconsistent with compliance with those duties.

NICE guidelines cover health and care in England. Decisions on how they apply in other UK countries are made by ministers in the Welsh Government, Scottish Government, and Northern Ireland Executive. All NICE guidance is subject to regular review and may be updated or withdrawn.

1 Research questions

- 1.What intervention components and other study characteristics are associated with the effectiveness of digital and mobile health interventions to change established behaviours relating to physical activity, sedentary behaviour and diet?
- 2.What components and characteristics of digital and mobile health interventions are effective at changing smoking behaviour?
- 3.What components and characteristics of digital and mobile health interventions are effective at changing alcohol consumption?
- 4.What components and characteristics of digital and mobile health interventions are effective at changing unsafe sexual behaviour?
- 5.Cost effectiveness search combined for all four questions

Each question had a separate search strategy which combined a behaviour change set, an “unhealthy behaviour” set and a digital therapies set. The behaviour change and digital therapies sets were identical for each search. The unhealthy behaviour set matched the unhealthy behaviour in the question eg smoking behaviour.

The cost effectiveness search covered all four questions in one search.

Results were managed using Endnote. Grey literature searches were added to the Endnote database where possible but for some websites, results were collated in a Word document. Result numbers in search summary tables reflect the number of grey literature results added to Endnote.
