This recorded webinar features a clinical expert involved in the development of NICE's updated guidance on the management of type 2 diabetes. The session provides an overview of key changes to the guidance and methodology, alongside practical considerations to support local implementation. It also explores how healthcare teams can identify opportunities for service improvement and engage colleagues in delivering better outcomes for people with type 2 diabetes.

The webinar is relevant to a wide range of healthcare professionals and decision makers, including GPs, nurses, pharmacists, dietitians, podiatrists, physician associates, commissioners, and long term conditions leads. It aims to support understanding of the updated recommendations and their effective application within local systems and organisations.
