QUALITY STANDARD TOPIC OVERVIEW

1 Quality standard title

Depression in children and young people

2 Quality standard background

A NICE quality standard is a concise set of statements designed to drive and measure priority quality improvements within a particular area of care.

A NICE quality standard is derived from NICE guidance and other guidance accredited by NICE. They are developed independently by NICE, in collaboration with NHS and social care professionals, their partners and service users. Recommendations relating to effectiveness and cost effectiveness, people's experience of using services, safety issues, equality and cost impact are considered during the development process.

NICE quality standards are central to supporting the Government's vision for an NHS and social care system that is focused on delivering the best possible outcomes for people who use services as detailed in the Health and Social Care Act (2012).

The quality standard development process is described in detail on the NICE website.

3 Topic overview

This topic overview describes core elements of the quality standard. These include the population and condition to be covered, key source guidance to be used to underpin potential quality statements, any related quality standards, published current practice information from national policy documents, reports and audits, and national or routine indicators and performance measures.

Where the source guidance is not NICE guidance, it should meet the minimum quality criteria defined in NICE's accreditation programme.

3.1 Timing

The development of the quality standard will begin in January 2013 and is expected to take 10 months to complete.

4 Population and condition to be covered

This quality standard will cover the care of children and young people (aged under 18 years) with depression.

5 Key development sources (NICE and NICE accredited sources)

Primary source

 Depression in children and young people. NICE clinical guideline 28 (2005).

Other sources that may be used in the development of the quality standard

• None.
