

Ublituximab for treating relapsing multiple sclerosis

Information for the public

Published: 18 December 2024

www.nice.org.uk

Ublituximab (Briumvi) is available on the NHS. It is a possible treatment for relapsing–remitting multiple sclerosis in adults that is confirmed as active by clinical or imaging features.

If you are not eligible for ublituximab but are already having it, you should be able to continue until you and your healthcare professional decide when best to stop.

Is this treatment right for me?

Your healthcare professionals should give you clear information, talk with you about your options and listen carefully to your views and concerns. Your family can be involved too, if you wish. See our webpage on making decisions about your care.

Questions to think about

- How well does it work compared with other treatments?
- What are the risks or side effects? How likely are they?
- How will the treatment affect my day-to-day life?
- What happens if the treatment does not work?
- What happens if I do not want to have treatment? Are there other treatments available?

Information and support

The NHS webpage on multiple sclerosis may be a good place to find out more.

These organisations can give you advice and support:

- Multiple Sclerosis Society, 0800 800 8000
- Multiple Sclerosis Trust, 0800 032 3839

You can also get support from your local Healthwatch.

NICE is not responsible for the quality or accuracy of any information or advice provided by these organisations.

ISBN: 978-1-4731-6694-3